

Read Today's Suggestions for Use of Waste Garage Space

Developing the Garage for Use of All Space.

There is hardly a home in this country that does not boast of a garage. Even though the structure itself is small, it will be contemplated, and some provision will have been made for it in the owner's mind. In some cases it will be attached and other cases detached, but whatever the condition may be, the garage has become a very important part of the average home.

It is an astonishing fact that of all the closed areas around a home, the garage is the most poorly developed. When you walk into the average garage you find a tremendous amount of space devoted to the housing of one or two cars. You find that there is a waste of at least two-thirds of that by flooring that space, and leaving a half-way with a ladder attached to one of the walls, you can promptly acquire spacious quarters.

When you run your car into the garage you are using the floor space only to a height of about five feet. If you build a low shelf across the back wall of the garage so that the hood of the car can run under it without trouble, you will have adequate storage for trunks, chests, etc.

Under this shelf, you can provide space for wheelbarrows, lawnmowers, rollers, or other garden equipment. The garden tools can be arranged in rows along one of the walls without interfering with the car. You can arrange racks above the car space for storm-suits and screens. You can have narrow shelves for plants

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—
SWAP SHEARS WINDOWS

A friendly reader, having read an item in our column about removing soap and tallow smeared from store windows after Halloween, wrote that she used a cola beverage for that purpose. She added that any carbonated drink or carbonated water might serve equally well. But she used cola drink. Many thanks to the reader for the tip.

BATHROOM FINISH

Q: Our pretty coat of plaster on the bathroom walls and ceiling is badly cracked. What could be used as a cover after the crack is filled? We can not afford anything expensive.

A: Be sure to have the crack filled in by an experienced workman. Otherwise the crack may give trouble again. If the plaster is cracked all over, you may need a complete replastering job. If there are only a few cracks, they can be filled and the walls and ceiling covered with a good wall-cloth of the oil-cloth type. An alternative is to paint with two coats of enamel undercoat and a finish coat of enamel. Ordinary flat wall paint will not be suitable in a bathroom, as it absorbs moisture.

OIL STAINED CEILING

Q: I live on the first floor. My papered living room ceiling has been stained from a leaky oil stove on the floor above. What should I do to my ceiling? I do not want the stain to spread.

A: If it is clean kerosene, the discoloration may disappear in two or three weeks' time, but if heavier oil was used, have the plaster cut out and replaster the area. Make certain the trouble overhead has been eliminated before you attempt replastering.

and brushes, oil-cans and spare equipment. If you will run your car or cars into the garage, and note exactly how much space is taken up, you can develop the balance to suit your needs.

Very often the two-car garage has a very large amount of space above it. In many cases it is large enough to warrant finishing it off to accommodate one or two rooms and a bath. The entrance can be arranged for by means of an outside stairway. This type of living quarters may be put to good use as a study, a spare room, or a guest room.

Protection Urged In Used Fixtures Sale

When used plumbing fixtures are sold to the public they should be plainly marked as such and should be properly disinfected and cleaned before being offered for sale. This suggestion is made by the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau in the interest of public health and in view of the fact that surplus government plumbing fixtures are expected to be on the market soon.

The Bureau points out that virtually all fixtures offered for sale by the government as surplus material are now new but are salvaged from military or naval housing or temporary housing erected for work workers. While many cities have ordinances governing the sale of used plumbing fixtures, not all municipalities offer such protection. It is for this reason that the Bureau points out that no used plumbing fixtures should be offered for sale without first having been thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. Fixtures with cracks and checks are particularly likely to harbor germs. The concealed trapways and overflows should be cleaned with great care. Purchasers should require proof that fixtures have been cleaned.

SAFETY EQUIPMENT

One of the newest ideas in home construction is the building in of fire extinguisher cabinets to match the woodwork. This innovation blends a protection with decor, keeps it always at hand in case of emergency. Only make sure that the extinguishers you put into your cabinets carry the approval label of the Underwriters' Laboratories. That label is your guarantee that the equipment has been tested by the fire safety engineers.

Crestline Society

Honors 25-Yr. Members

Special to The Star
CRESTLINE, April 20—The Missionary society of First Presbyterian church met in the home of Mrs. L. M. Niswander Wednesday with Mrs. C. E. Iman, associate hostess. Mrs. C. E. Cook led devotions, aided by Mrs. John Beck and Mrs. Niswander. Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Sherwood McKean were given recognition as members of the society for 25 years, after which they reviewed the book, "Dr. Ida India." Mrs. Louis Smith was program leader.

Labor Shortage Slows Equipment Output

Manufacturers of plumbing and heating equipment are hopeful that the labor shortage, which is now hampering production, will be alleviated this year so that they may attain normal output and meet the huge demand for plumbing fixtures, brass goods, boilers, radiators, pipe, valves, fittings, water heaters, storage cabinets, and other plumbing and heating materials.

Manufacturers have ample productive capacity to produce large quantities of plumbing and heating materials. The chief limitation on production, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau, is the inability of the manufacturers to get an adequate number of experienced workmen. The shortage of help is particularly acute in the foundry departments and the brass polishing departments.

RULES DRAWN TO AID "AMATEUR" PAINTERS

For promotion of better painting results by so-called amateur painters—most of whom can turn out a mighty neat performance if they try—the Canadian Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association has drawn 15 rules.

Some of these, it is commented, may be new, but most of them are long established and fundamental. All are simple and it is suggested that they be reviewed and observed when a paint job is to be done. The rules:

1. Use a good quality paint. If the job is worth spending time on, it deserves a paint that will give best results.
2. Stir the paint thoroughly before using. Everybody knows that should be done, but plenty of people still are inclined to skip on the stirring.
3. Be sure that the surface to be painted is absolutely free from dirt, oil or grease—and of course, make sure it is dry.

Directions Important

4. Follow the directions on the can—the manufacturer really knows best how his product should be used. He has spent a lot of time and money to find out the best way to use his product. Don't try thinning with linseed oil. The paint may go farther if you do, but it won't stand up as well because the careful balance between oils and pigments has been upset.
5. Use a good quality brush. It pays off in a better paint job.
6. If it is a new brush, give it a 24-hour soaking in linseed oil before putting it in the paint.
7. Use a sensible size brush. Don't try to do a wall with a little brush, and don't try to do fine work, or get into tight corners, with a big brush.
8. Allow plenty of time between coats. Not just enough time so that the paint is no longer tacky, but enough time so that it has dried hard and firm.
9. Do your painting when the air is warm and dry for best results. In interior painting, make sure that there is plenty of circulating.

Watch the Colors

11. In choosing paint colors, from color chips in paint stores, remember that the color the finished job will be some deeper than that of the color because the color has been applied to a greater area.

12. If the surface hasn't been painted before, use a good water undercoating for the first coat.
13. Don't apply paint in one run. Two thin coats are better than one thick one.
14. Remember the simplicity of color—that blues, greens, yellows and oranges are "cool" colors and reds, oranges and yellows are "warm" colors. Light colors give an impression of greater spaciousness and darker shades do the opposite.

15. Ask your paint dealer to see on particular problem—telephone or write any reputable paint company whose product are using.

DON'T WAIT

A flame-resistant roof on a building is required by many communities, but why wait for the law to catch up with you? Include this safeguard in your building or remodeling, and you won't be plagued with what about the sparks that fly from the neighbors' chimneys.

HITS, B.U.C. DELAY

COLUMBUS, O., April 20—Ohio workers are being forced to wait six or seven weeks after application for their unemployment compensation checks, William LaVelle, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio CIO council, asserted today. The delay, LaVelle said, is due to the system whereby applications must be checked by the central office in Columbus. Proper authority should be relegated to local BUC officials, he added.

Anti-Tank Gun Replaces Old Civil War Cannon

Special to The Star

BUCHYRUS, April 20 — Replacing the old Civil War cannon which was an ornament in front of the Bucyrus Armory until it joined the "scrap drive" during the second World war, a modern anti-tank gun is to be placed at the Armory by Camp Thoman, United Spanish War Veterans.

The new gun has already been brought to the Armory and will be placed as soon as the old cannon standard can be removed to make way for a larger standard required by the new gun.

The new gun was secured from the ordnance plant at Leavenworth, near Camp Perry and is a surplus 57 MM anti-tank gun, and was brought here by truck supplied by the Ohio Locomotive Crane Co.

Easter's Promise

THERE will be more thought than usual this Easter about promises that could be fulfilled if enough men grew tired of their own faultiness.

Human beings do not need to hate and kill one another. They do so by their own decision. They deny the brotherhood of man, or if they do not deny it they accept only the principle, ignoring the practice.

The promises they make to each other in the wake of each new wave of death and destruction could be kept. They could be renewed from year to year as the promise of Easter is renewed. Men could do this, if they chose.

Many do choose to do it. For almost 2,000 years, men have been moving closer to realization of the promise of Easter, that mankind can be redeemed if there is faith.

Wherever the grass grows green on a soldier's grave, or a blossom falls on ground hallowed by suffering and death this Easter, the promise is renewed in someone's heart. Men never were closer to understanding the ultimate wisdom of Christianity than they are today, disillusioned by their latest denial of brotherhood with their own kind.

Propaganda Is Not Discussion

SECRETARY OF NAVY FORRESTAL'S order to officers to pipe down on speeches against unification of the armed services should help to clear up a situation that had grown explosive. It already had fired President Truman's temper.

The fact is that special pleading by spokesmen for a government department is not legitimate discussion. It is diversion of money, time and effort for propaganda. The Navy department is not the first to engage in it by any means. Most government departments have had the illusion that they are untouchable.

One of the most flagrant abuses of public tolerance is the method chosen by OPA in its frantic attempt to develop immunity to change. This sort of thing should be below the dignity of the armed services. It is below even the minimum dignity of OPA.

Discussion of the unification of national defense will continue in a calmer atmosphere. The issue will be settled after hearing the expert testimony of Navy spokesmen, war department spokesmen and anyone else with something to say—testimony, not propaganda.

Government employees easily fall into the error of thinking they alone know how their departments should be run. It is necessary to remind them occasionally that such decisions are not made by employees. Under our Constitution, they are made by congress.

Disorganized Labor

IN automobile factories workers are being sent home for lack of material. Strikes are holding auto production to a trickle spreading distress among automobile workers.

Steel production throughout the country, reports civilian production administration, is declining, due to the blumington strike. Emergency conditions are imminent in railroads and coal-using utilities. All hope of further progress with reconversion now depends on John L. Lewis.

The first products of reconversion industry frequently are halted short of the market or marketed apologetically because some essential part cannot be supplied pending decision of other labor leaders to let union members go back to work.

In Cleveland an AFL organization denies admission to newsmen belonging to CIO, contending that AFL members could not attend CIO meetings, so turn-about is fair play.

Throughout the United States preparations are afoot for a showdown in the war between AFL and CIO for dues-paying members. Within the two labor organizations other preparations are afoot for a showdown in the war between officials for control of the organizations and their vast incomes.

Yet there continues to be absurd talk about organized labor as something with a single purpose and a single identity. In the present state of affairs, it is not organized labor which is threatening to cut off its nose to spite its face. It is disorganized labor, with no unity, no program, nothing but a bad combination of the simmes and devil take the hindmost.

STYLES FOR THUGS

Guns are becoming clothes conscious. In Chicago a little character put on white tie and tails before shooting at two citizens. The society editor informs us, however, that the costume is not correct. The proper dress for performing your neighbors is hunting pants, riding boots and a top hat. Then you cry, "Yolcks," and blast away with the Tommy gun. —Kansas City Star.

New Proposal To Unify Services Demands Attention

SOME months ago, when Army-Navy unification plans began to get hot, it was suggested in this column that the place to unify the services was in the White House. The President's time, of course, is extremely limited, allowing only for a few minutes to discuss the subject. But it is possible to attach to the President a deputy with sufficient authority and dignity to coordinate those matters in which joint Army-Navy interests are involved. The President already has an administrative assistant. But so important have been the appointments that the present grade of assistant President is insufficient. A deputy could be added who would be qualified to serve for the President in service affairs.

Major George Fielding Eliot has now made a similar proposal to end the current controversy over the President's intended plan. It should be noted by congress.

The President is committed to the Army plan. He cannot well retreat. The Navy is prevented by a White House veto from a real appeal to the public Congress is Visual Education?

A former Georgia school principal is performing in the chorus of a Chicago burlesque theater.

This is a strange situation and former members of her P-T-A must be shaking their heads over this sheltered southern maid who is going in for northern exposure.

Her colleagues, too, will find it difficult to understand her deserting the teaching profession, where she had only to use her head.

But one can see her side of it. The pay is better, for one thing, and then, too, there are no papers to grade at night.

Besides, she undoubtedly finds it easier to hold the attention of her present patrons than her former pupils.

There seems little likelihood, with stage-door Johnnies showering her with candy and flowers, that she's missing the apples which the pupils brought.

After all, she's still in the educational field... only now she's teaching anatomy.

Study of War Prison Effects

Specialists Report on Health of Former Jap Captives.

A HEALTH survey of 4,618 repatriated American prisoners of war from the Far East revealed that 60 to 70 per cent harbored intestinal parasites or worms—some from two to six different kinds at a time.

The surgeon general established a board of specialists to conduct the survey. The report is presented in the April 13 issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association by Brigadier General Hugh J. Morgan, United States Army, Colonel Irving S. Wright and Lieut. Colonel Arlie Van Ravenswaay, of the Medical Corps, Army of the United States.

The survey, which was made in debarkation hospitals on the East and West Coasts, began on September 1, 1945 and was terminated October 22, 1945. The period of captivity among the patients ranged from three and one-half years to a few days. According to the authors, "conditions under which most of the men had lived were those of starvation, filth and lack of suitable clothing, with periods of definite torture. Thousands died as a result of these hardships."

The Journal article says in part:

"Many of the troops captured in the Philippines had been on starvation diets and had suffered from dysentery and malaria for many weeks before capture. Some had lost 30 to 50 pounds before capture."

"While the total weight of many of these patients at the time of the survey was equal to their former normal weight examination with particular attention to their shoulder girdles and extremities indicated that their nutritional state as evidenced by muscular development was far below normal. The newly gained weight in these persons was largely confined to their protruberant abdomens, or so-called 'rice bellies'."

Malaria Prevalent

"Careful histories revealed that 2,519 men believed that they had malaria sometime during their imprisonment. Since most of these men had received little or no antimalarial therapy during their imprisonment, the available evidence to the belief that malaria will 'burn it self out' without treatment over a period of from a few months to several years."

A detailed study was carried out on 75 chronic patients. These men had been on a grossly inadequate diet consisting mainly of rice for an average of 40 months. The average loss of weight was 37 pounds. Nutritional deficiency was observed in 50 to 70 per cent. A history suggesting wet beriberi (a form with anemia and edema, but without paralysis, caused by a deficiency of vitamin B1) was obtained in 77 per cent, and a history of dry beriberi (a form in which paralysis is the dominant feature) was obtained in about 30 per cent.

"Anemia was observed in 52 per cent of the first 1,500 released prisoners surveyed."

The factors concerned in the production of these ailments were complex. They included severe

ATLANTA—If Junior breaks into the neighbor's house and decorates the bedspread with tomato ketchup...

If the waitress spurns your tip with "you probably need it worse than I do..."

If someone chisels his way ahead of you at the market...

"Why be irritated?" asks Dr. Neudigate M. Owensby, Atlanta psychiatrist. "It's just the trend of the times."

And Dr. Owensby doesn't see any improvement in the trend. In fact, if you're still careful about your manners, you're just out of step with the times, he says.

After the last war, he recalled, they called it the "Jazz Age." What will it be called this time? Dr. Owensby doesn't know, but he's sure it will be worse.

Some factors in the picture, he says, are these: Women have been knocked off their pedestals—and they like it. They've gone into welding in wartime—and they're tough. The kids left at home—they think they've gotten tough too.

Southern civility and its haiting gentleness?

Dr. Owensby murmurs a farewell to the lazy, courteous south. The modern miss, he says, would suspect the Crinolene era courtly as a preliminary maneuver to a pick-up.

But all civility is not, of course, dead, says Dr. Owensby. "There is, for instance, the case of the man who didn't offer to give up his seat but who offered to hold the packages of a lady who was standing."

THIS SEASON'S BUNNIES

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, April 20, 1936. Premier Mussolini, through his Geneva spokesman, stated that his price for peace in Ethiopia would be acquisition of the east African empire.

A Paris newspaper reported Germany had begun building a line of steel and concrete fortifications in the remilitarized Rhineland along the Dutch, Belgian and French frontiers.

Rev. and Mrs. Franklin G. Markley of Epworth church, Rev. and Mrs. Henry M. May of Prospect Street Methodist church, Rev. and Mrs. Stanley W. Wiant of the Wesley church and Rev. Richard Black of the Abury and Moral charges attended a spring meeting of pastors and laymen of the Lima district of the Methodist church at Dunkirk.

Approximately 200 members and guests attended the 39th anniversary of the organization of Lydia Chapter No. 53, Order of the Eastern Star, Nueces of the 22 chapter members were present.

They were Mr. and Mrs. David Odaffer of Columbus, Mrs. Jessie Clark, Mrs. Bertha Cheney, Mrs. Laura Dombough, Mrs. Mary K. Hughes, Mrs. Mildred Hunter, Mrs. Nettie Waddell and Mrs. Ella Williams. Mrs. Zeida Sweeney was worthy matron of the chapter.

Bennett Bledley was a guest speaker at a meeting of the Marine Service club at Hotel Harding. Robert Anderson and William Luce were introduced as new members.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, April 20, 1926.

The annual Marion Y. M. C. A. campaign for operating funds started with a goal of $20,250 set. A corps of 125 solicitors was in the field.

Gen. Smedley D. Butler, head of the Marine corps, announced he would launch a campaign to "dry up" that branch of the military service. His announcement followed court martial conviction of Col. Alexander S. Williams on drunkenness charges. Investigation showed, according to Gen. Butler, that "cocktail parties" were a frequent occurrence at the Marine base.

A luncheon was given by Mrs. J. Harold Prendergast at her home on Vernon Heights boulevard complementing Miss Josephine Schroeter, whose marriage to Richard E. Edmondson of New York City was to take place the following week.

Mrs. O. C. Briggs of South Vine Street returned from St. Petersburg, Fla., where she had spent the winter with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Briggs.

Dr. and Mrs. Jesse Swank of Dayton, former Marion residents were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Scheenlaub of Mt. Vernon avenue on their way home from Lakeside.

Small Radio Helps Flying

STAMFORD, Conn. — An old source of accidents in the air has been eliminated through development here of a post-card-size two-way radio for light aviation planes.

Radio, Inc., manufacturer, declares that the new set catches big plane safety to small craft and solves the hazard caused by small planes being out of contact with the control tower for instructions and positioning.

The set weighs ten pounds and ten ounces and makes a postcard-size panel on the dashboard. It provides plane-to-tower, interplane and interplane passenger communication, and also is designed to permit range finding and standard broadcast reception.

U. S. Jobholders Hold On

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — There's a good deal of complaint around here—especially in congress—that the federal payroll isn't going down from its wartime high as fast as it should.

Bare figures indicate that federal employees may level off soon, at least temporarily, at about 2,400,000 — only 600,000 under the all-time war high. The administration promised that it would have the figure down to 2,000,000 by July 1.

Also, according to the best indexes, the national capital still is growing with no indication of that anticipated postwar exodus.

However, as Jerry Klutz, the Washington Post watchdog on matters of federal employment, points out, figures don't tell the whole story and the government is doing itself an injustice in not breaking down the figures and explaining.

This undoubtedly is true and it provides anti-administration members of the economy bloc plenty of ammunition that actually doesn't amount to much of a bang when an analysis is made.

Some Replacements

In the first place, the administration undoubtedly erred in its estimate of what it could do about quick payroll whittling on the federal payroll. A lot of wartime agencies have been closed down or are now in the process of closing.

But a number (some very sizeable) have sprung up and certain wartime duties of others merely transferred to established departments.

The best example of postwar growth is naturally the Veterans Administration. Virtually dying before the war, VA now finds itself with around 15,000,000 veterans to deal with and with administrative duties undreamed of under the old veteran laws.

National housing, surplus property disposal and a half dozen others have suddenly to work out reconversion. The department of agriculture is finding that it has temporary problems almost as great as those in war. State is reestablishing its embassies. Legations and consulates, as well as providing civilians for the occupation forces. Treasury reductions are bound to be slight. Labor has expanded greatly through absorption of war emergency agencies.

While the Army and Navy are getting rid of uniformed personnel at quite a clip now, they are having to replace many of them with civilian employees.

Let's hope that big government on a wartime scale is not here to stay. The figures so far aren't proof that it is.

Daily Bible Thought

Humanity is needlessly haunted by fear. This is God's world and no sparrow falls to the ground without his will and the hairs of our heads are numbered. He makes every cell of our bodies to perform physical and chemical wonders, why not trust Him? "Casting all your anxiety upon Him, because he careth for you." —1 Peter 5:7.

CROSSTOWN

By Roland Coe

To get to the point, I was urged by persons with more sympathy than sense to get into the situation. Young Miller was away and stayed a couple of weeks early in March and it looked like a separation was in the air. When she came back, things were no better. Yesterday I happened to be going by the place and stopped in to drop some pearls of wisdom I thought I was being mighty slick and smooth about it.

Do you know what happened? Sure. They strung me along and I expanded, and let me expand and one thing led to another. Then they pounced on me. They called me a silly old man who had been put out by a lot of female busybodies. They told me they didn't hold it against me for being out of the head but that I could tell the busybodies was nobody's business but theirs. Mr. and Mrs. Miller, how they got along and that as a matter of fact they were getting along fine and I acted sore once in a while that was no surprise. They were having any trouble. They liked it that way, they said.

I got out as fast as I could and haven't mentioned it to anybody but you. Husband and wives who fight are one thing or the other, either people who never are going to get along, or people who enjoy fighting. In either case there's nothing anyone can do about it. I have known for most of my lifetime that I was forgetting. This is all I have to report. —Cotton Corners at this time. Your Uncle George. —A big fool as he always thought he was. —I just been reminded of it again. Incidentally, it happened on April Fool's day, which was appropriate wasn't it? Cotton Corners. Portrait for Good Friday

GEORGE SPELVIN shrugged his shoulders and appealed to his part for the relief of European war as a matter of fact. "Way is it?" he asked. "Sure, it's a tough job, but what can I do that will make a difference?"

"And stripping him, they put a scarlet about it. And plucking a crown of thorns they put it upon his head..."

He wasn't interested in solving the bomb problem. We invented it, didn't we? Now that we have it, of course, the other fellows want it. I dunno where they should share the secret and outlaw it or. They raised the fuss, didn't they, when gas was first used. It ain't my headache should worry."

"And they put a reed in His right hand, and bowing the knee before Him, they mocked Him, saying 'Hail, King!'"

What was happening under the occupation in Europe and Asia didn't bother George. "We won the war, didn't we?" he asked. "I jumped in and saved the world, didn't we? It's all over, and we should get out of there. If those bully nations haven't learned the lesson and there's to be another war some time, then there's nothing we can do to stop it more than the last time. Let the nations go to home do the worrying."

"And putting upon him, they took the robe and struck his head..."

"There's too many appeals. It's just one after another. Red Cross, United Charities, European Relief, Catholic Charities, Cancer... all after the other. I'm willing to do my part, but I've got my own troubles. These appeals come too fast, I tell you," Spelvin complained.

"And after they had mocked Him, they took off His cloak from him and put on Him His own garments..."

There was a report that the United Nations Organization, the great hope for an end of war and for permanent world peace, was going to set up shop in George's town, and he began squawking at once. "What'll it do to property values?" he cried. "What about business? I want to know if it'll guarantee that my mine will not be disturbed in the peace, and quiet enjoyment of my home?"

"And they led Him away to crucify him. And they gave Him wine to drink mingled with gall."

George was for forgetting the war and all its problems and getting back to business, and a little fun. "Things will work out all right," he said lightly. "We're working too much. The war is now is to settle down to business, scrap those global problems and get back where we can have things like we used to."

"And after they crucified Him they parted His garments and cast lots for them."

"Well, I'll be getting along," said Spelvin. "It's a queer world, ain't it?"

BACK HOME STUFF

Having been a country kid, this correspondent is a softy when it comes to things with a rural flavor. Which is why he is now the proud possessor (of all things) of a nifty red and blue two-passenger sleigh, with curve dashboards, ornamental brass work and even SPRING which came only on the deluxe model. It's right out of the Dandies catalog.

The sleigh was at auction in front of the Plymouth Church, Milford, and were so outdone when the highest bid was $4 that we plunged for a five spot and took it home where we can furnish it, slick it up and hope for a sleigh ride next winter. Anybody got a good carriage for cheap?

A two-seater sleigh right out of Corner & Ives, a closed private cabriolet and two boxes with the fringe on top, all kept in pretty good shape in Charlie Major's barn went for fifteen and six dollars respectively, and the barn were bigger they would be in it now.

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: I will never learn to keep out of other people's affairs. Just when I think that at last I have reformed, I blunder into the trap again.

I mean the trap fixed up to look like a vine-covered cottage. It could be a happy home, except for one thing. The man and woman who live there fight all the time. Every neighborhood has one of these setups.

Every neighborhood also has a fool with good intentions who can be tricked into trying to do something about it. That is where you, Uncle George, comes into the picture, with his ears flapping.

The Miller boy came home from the war before Christmas and married a girl he met in a little town in Pennsylvania. We made a fuss over them here at the Corners.

They moved into a nice house on the Y. The old man built it just before he died in the 30's and Mrs. Miller lived there until she died in 1934. We wished them well.

In February it began to be common talk that they weren't getting along. Before long the talk became fact. They were fighting in public and in private. The house stands back from the road 50 yards, but even at that distance people could hear the yelling.

To get to the point, I was urged by persons with more sympathy than sense to get into the situation. Young Miller was away and stayed a couple of weeks early in March and it looked like a separation was in the air. When she came back, things were no better. Yesterday I happened to be going by the place and stopped in to drop some pearls of wisdom I thought I was being mighty slick and smooth about it.

Do you know what happened? Sure. They strung me along and I expanded, and let me expand and one thing led to another. Then they pounced on me. They called me a silly old man who had been put out by a lot of female busybodies. They told me they didn't hold it against me for being out of the head but that I could tell the busybodies was nobody's business but theirs. Mr. and Mrs. Miller, how they got along and that as a matter of fact they were getting along fine and I acted sore once in a while that was no surprise. They were having any trouble. They liked it that way, they said.

I got out as fast as I could and haven't mentioned it to anybody but you. Husband and wives who fight are one thing or the other, either people who never are going to get along, or people who enjoy fighting. In either case there's nothing anyone can do about it. I have known for most of my lifetime that I was forgetting. This is all I have to report. —Cotton Corners at this time. Your Uncle George. —A big fool as he always thought he was. —I just been reminded of it again. Incidentally, it happened on April Fool's day, which was appropriate wasn't it? Cotton Corners. Uncle George.

SENATORS URGE FLAT LEAVE PAY FOR GI'S

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, April 20—Four senators sought today to settle the question of military terminal leave pay for discharged enlisted men and women with flat payments of $200 to those who served overseas and $100 to those who did not.

Senators Johnson (D-Colo.), Maybank (D-SC), McFarland (D-Ariz) and Chavez (D-NM) introduced a joint bill which would: Make the payments to all who served six or more months since Aug. 27, 1914, were honorably discharged, and received less than 30 days a year in furloughs.

Provide they could obtain the money simply by showing their discharge certificates at any naval station, Army finance or recruiting office.

Oliver enlisted men and women still in the service terminal pay on the basis of two and a half days for each month of service, less furlough time actually received.

Authors of the bill explained yesterday it was intended to simplify war and navy department bookkeeping, which under other proposals would require examination of millions of service records.

A bill scheduled for house action May 13 would give discharged enlisted personnel the same terminal leave benefits as officers receive. This consists of pay for all unexpired furlough time up to 120 days, regardless of whether the service was overseas or domestic.

Capacity Audience Set As Goal for Next Concert Series Here

Marion Group Plans Ticket Sale Campaign for Next Winter.

A "capacity audience" is the goal of the Marion Community Concert association whose members will launch their 1946-47 membership campaign Monday, and continue through Saturday, April 27. In keeping with the policy of the Columbia Concert Series, under whose auspices the concert programs are presented, the membership drive will last only one week and no tickets will be available after the close of the drive nor at the time the concerts are presented.

Artists who will appear on next year's programs will be selected by the local committee at the close of the membership drive week and the selections will be made according to the amount of money available from the membership dues.

To Open Headquarters

The campaign will be launched with a dinner Monday evening at 7 o'clock in the Marion club-room at Hotel Harding. More than 100 workers have made reservations for the affair. Headquarters for the week will be at the H. Schaffner Co. store and a telephone listed as the Marion Community Concert Association.

The gratifying success of the 1945-46 concert season which brought top-ranking artist James Melton here, and the generous and enthusiastic support of the nearly 1,000 membership holders, prompted the general committee to set their goal higher this year and aim for a "capacity audience."

Requests have already been made for tickets for the forthcoming series. The season closed recently with the presentation of the Fox-hold Ballet, and the remaining number on the three - number series was Carroll Glenn, violinist. Memberships sold last year numbered 970.

List of Artists

The Community Concert series list among its artists Lily Pons, Bido Snyao, James Melton, Nino Martini of the Metropolitan Opera Co., Rudolph Serkin, Eugene List, husband of Carroll Glenn, Constantine Kene, pianist, Jascha Heifetz, Yehudi Menuhin, Adolf Busch, violinists, the Platoff Don Cossack Russian Chorus and Dancers, the Trapp Family singers, the Columbia Grand Opera Quartet, the St. Louis Symphonietta and many other world-renowned entertainers. To be heard for the first time in concert performance this year will be Father Flanagan's Boys' Town Choir also booked by the Columbia Concerts, Inc.

Mrs. Harold K. Mouser is general chairman of the campaign, and Mrs. A. G. Birch will serve as headquarters secretary. Mrs. LeRoy Schneider is in charge of publicity. Other members of the general executive committee is Mrs. Karl W. Schell, president of the association, Mrs. Clara Campbell, Mrs. James C. Woods, Mrs. William Thomas, Mrs. Carter M. Patton, Mrs. John F. Lacey, Mrs. W. G. McPeck and Mrs. Harry T. Williams. Mrs. Williams is chairman of the committee in charge of plans for the dinner.

Comic Stars in "Sing Your Way Home" To Show Here Four Days.

"Strange Impersonation" starring Brenda Marshall and William Gargan, and "Sing Your Way Home" with Jack Haley and Mary McGuire will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Marion theater.

The former is the story of a young woman scientist whose beautiful face is horribly burned by a chemical explosion. As a result of this, she loses her self-confidence and is ashamed to face the man she loves. In the latter, Jack Haley is seen as an unwilling champion for a group of young American entertainers who, having been trapped in France at the outbreak of the war, are returning home aboard an ocean liner.

JOHN PAYNE, CONNIE MARSHALL AND MAURENE O'HARA are seen in "Sentimental Journey" which is now playing through Thursday at the Ohio theater.

Theater Story Comes To Ohio

"Sentimental Journey" Stars John Payne, William Bendix, Maureen O'Hara.

"Sentimental Journey" starring John Payne, Maureen O'Hara, and William Bendix, and featuring Connie Marshall is now playing through Thursday at the Ohio theater.

The picture tells the unusual and heart-warming story of a glamorous stage star who, very much in love with her husband, attempts to add to his happiness by adopting a nine-year-old child. However, because of the child's sensitive nature and imagination, the plan doesn't work out and a crisis develops.

John Payne is seen as a theatrical producer and director, and Connie Marshall is the little orphan who causes serious trouble between the producer and his stage star wife. William Bendix plays John Payne's business manager and provides the comedy in the picture.

An added attraction to be seen with "Sentimental Journey" will be a new March of Time, "Night Club Boom." With the people of America on pleasure hunts, this picture shows some of the many personalities who appear at the night clubs and the many who go there for entertainment.

James Cagney and Ann Sheridan are co-starred in "City for Conquest" which will be shown for seven days starting Friday. A dramatic picture, "City for Conquest" tells the story of five people who have in their lives known the despair of victory, joined her way to the bright emptiness of conquest, and the glory of the dignity of a boy who lived and lost. James Cagney is seen as a plum merchant who rises to fame and fortune by the power of his fists, and Ann Sheridan plays Peggy Nash who loneliness, the despair of victory, joined her way to the bright emptiness of conquest, and the glory of the dignity of a boy who lived and lost.
